

Privacy Statement

We are committed to maintaining the privacy of our candidates and other users of our site. We comply with data protection laws that are applicable in respect of data processing within the UK. Together with any recruitment companies that may have facilitated your job application with us, we determine the purposes and the manner in which personal data is processed.

This privacy notice sets out how we collect, use and protect your personal information and your rights in relation to your information.

What type of data do we collect?

As part of our recruitment process it is necessary for us to collect and process personal data about you. Categories of personal data that we collect includes:

- personal details (for example, your name, date of birth)
- your contact details (for example, your address, phone number and e-mail address)
- your qualifications, experience, work and education history
- your salary details
- details of your eligibility to work
- where relevant, details of your working preferences

We are an equal opportunities employer and therefore may also collect data in line with our Equality and Diversity policy (for example, your gender or ethnicity).

In those cases where the information we hold about you was not provided directly by you, that information will usually come either from recruitment companies that assist us with our recruitment process or from publicly available sources.

How will we use your data?

Your personal data will be stored, processed, used and disclosed by us in the following ways:

- To facilitate the recruitment process
- To provide you with information about suitable jobs within the business
- To assess data about you against vacancies which we judge may be suitable for you
- To send your data to third parties where appropriate (see details below)
- To improve our recruitment process
- To answer your questions and enquiries
- To improve the administration, structuring and management of the group companies (as listed below)
- As part of our reporting activities to third parties involved in the management of the business including investors, shareholders and controlling parties

Do we pass data to third parties?

We (or an agent working on our behalf) may pass your personal data to third parties for the purposes listed above. These third parties may include, where applicable:

- Companies who we send information to for the purpose completing a driving assessment, such as the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency (DVLA)
- Companies that perform background checks for us
- Companies involved in the administration, structuring and management of our business including investors, shareholders and controlling parties
- Health professionals
- Our Life Assurance provider as part of our benefits package
- Our joint venture partners or other companies where you may reasonably be required to work if your employment with us is agreed
- Our group companies including Untypical Limited (registration number 68992) and Hopkins Homes Limited (company number 02875798)

We may pass your personal data to government bodies, regulators, law enforcement agencies, courts/tribunals and insurers where we are required to do so.

Where necessary, we or our data processors may transfer or share personal information outside of the UK. When doing so, we comply with the UK GDPR, making sure appropriate safeguards are in place.

How is my data safeguarded?

The security of your data is important to us. Access to the data is only provided to our staff and other third parties who need access for the recruitment process and your employment with us.

We have in place security measures to protect the security of your personal information and keep it confidential. We review these measures regularly to make sure they remain appropriate. We cannot guarantee the security of any third-party application you may use to transmit your data (for example, internet browsers).

We may transfer and process your data outside of the UK. Where your personal information is to be transferred outside the UK we will take reasonable steps to ensure that there are appropriate safeguards to protect your information.

We will keep your personal information for at least as long as we have a relationship with you or anyone whose personal information you have provided. When deciding how long to keep your personal information after our relationship with you has ended (for example, if you tell us you no longer wish to be considered for roles with us), we will keep your information for either 3 years or a period of time taking into account our legal, professional and regulatory obligations as well as any investigations that may arise (whichever is the longer).

On what grounds will we process your personal data?

We must have a legal reason to process your personal information. The information you provide will be processed:

- to meet our legitimate interests to enable our recruitment process to be carried out
- for our legitimate interests or the legitimate interests of third parties including a group company or a third party involved in the administration, structuring and management of our company.
- to enable us to review equal opportunities within the business

In the event that your employment with us is agreed, your data will be processed for purposes that are necessary to meet our contractual obligations with you, to meet our legal obligations (such as compliance with employment law), to meet our legitimate interests to effectively maintain your employment with us, for our legitimate interests or the legitimate interest of third parties (see details above), to enable us to review equal opportunities with us and to assess your working capacity.

Your information

Your information registered with us, including your CV, is available to view and amend. We encourage you to update any information about you if it is out of date or let us know of any changes.

Your data protection rights and how to complain

Under data protection law, you have rights including:

Your right of access - You have the right to ask us for copies of your personal data.

Your right to rectification - You have the right to ask us to rectify personal data you think is inaccurate. You also have the right to ask us to complete information you think is incomplete.

Your right to erasure - You have the right to ask us to erase your personal data in certain circumstances.

Your right to restriction of processing - You have the right to ask us to restrict the processing of your personal data in certain circumstances.

Your right to object to processing - You have the right to object to the processing of your personal data in certain circumstances.

Your right to data portability - You have the right to ask that we transfer the personal data you gave us to another organisation, or to you, in certain circumstances.

You don't usually need to pay a fee to exercise your rights. If you make a request, we have one calendar month to respond to you.

To make a data protection rights request, please contact us at recruitment@tiliahomes.co.uk. If you do not want us to process your data, then we may not be able to consider you for roles with us.

In the event that you have cause for complaint please contact us and we will follow up to resolve this. If you have a data privacy related complaint, you also have the option to direct your complaint to the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO).
